Teaching Philosophy	I believe that students learn best through the integration of both book knowledge and hands-on skill. Students acquire knowledge in the classroom and should be allowed the opportunity to experience what they learn in a hands-on, clinical setting. The combination of didactic knowledge and practical experiences permits students to learn skills rather than just memorize facts. My job is to help students have the "I finally get it" moment through this integrated approach.
Bio	Aimee Mattox has been a Certified Athletic Trainer for 9 years. Her clinical experience includes high school, clinic, arena football and collegiate club sports settings. During this time, she has served as a preceptor for approximately 40 athletic training students.
